Your guide to environmental law affecting your business

Dear Subscriber

More power to your business with renewables

Have you considered generating your own energy? By investing in wind, solar or hydropower, you will shrink your carbon footprint, and could get a good return on your investment through cost savings and energy tariffs. Read our new renewable energy guidance if you want to generate energy from renewable sources.

How do you keep pests under control?

Any business using pesticides or biocides must prevent them getting into the environment and harming wildlife. Our updated pesticides and biocides guidance explains how to check that substances are approved for use, who can use them, and how to store and dispose of them.
